Dearest Papa and Mama:

It is very hard for me to say what I feel because I have such a heavy heart right now...but I want you to know how grateful I am that you called me and that we could all be together.

I started to cry when I left the hotel. Today has touched me more than any experience I can remember. And it means so very much to me to have Jason be with you, to know and love his grandparents.

The experience of this past nightmarish year, as necessary as the divorce was, has made me very, very sad.

I promise you that I will always keep you informed about Jason, so you can share his life as he grows. He is a special, wonderful child and nothing means more to me than giving him a life filled with happiness. He gives me more joy than I could ever describe.

I hope we will see you again when you are back. And once more, thank you for letting us see you. Irene joins me in expressing her appreciation.

Fondly,

Leslie
