♡ Dear Grammy and Grampy, ♡

So, how are you? I miss you both so much!

California is getting more and more beautiful. The weather has been absolutely gorgeous. I wish you both were here to enjoy it too.

School is going very well! We just finished doing a musical called "Pins and Needles" It was so much fun. That's the best way to get really close to people. Working with them in a situation like that. Another girl and I played the piano for the show. We did four days of the performance. Every one was sad when it ended, but a good thing like that shouldn't go on too long.

As you know, the school runs on the "block system", that is you take two class for six weeks, three hours a piece then at the end of the six weeks you pick another two courses. It's a very good system, because you really get to learn alot, and if you miss a day, then you've really miss alot!

Margot's been taking mainly history and math courses. The next block she'll be helping another teacher, teaching a Women's History course. Next year she'll be trying to do some work, fruit picking, and/or working in a factory. Then she'll probably go to New Mexico for six weeks and study Spanish.

I've just finished 18 weeks of French, and am now starting Spanish and Geometry.

I'm still taking piano, and love every minute of it. I'm now studing Chopin, Bach and Mozart. I have a great teacher, who teaches at the Conservatory in San Francisco.

Daddy and Harriet have been working hard, not on their writing but mainly on their future plans. Daddy will ~~probably~~ leave Yale and work for the Institute of World Order in New York. They probably won't live in New York, but near.

Well thats the latest news up to date in beautiful California....

I love you both and miss you so much! Much much love,

Amy

P.S. Grampy, I made you a birthday card, and lost it, but I will send you a new one, I know it's a little late, forgive me! (please) love you!
