Dear Mr. Lazar:

The Office of Postgraduate Medical Education of the Stanford University School of Medicine is producing a program for public broadcast television, entitled "To Praise Man."

This documentary deals with the physical basis and the expressions of human uniqueness, mankind's extraordinary achievements, the problems mankind faces, and the reasons to be optimistic about the future.

The participants include some of the world's foremost scientists, artists, and scholars, including: Miss Judith Blegen, Metropolitan Opera; Robert A. Chase, M.D., Stanford University hand surgeon and President of the National Board of Medical Examiners; Mr. Norman Cousins, author and editor of the SATURDAY REVIEW; Ruth Day, Ph.D., Psychologist, Yale University; Rene Dubos, Ph.D., Biologist, Rockefeller University; Miss Ella Fitzgerald, contemporary vocalist; David A. Hamburg, M.D., Psychiatrist, Stanford University, and President, Institute of Medicine, of the National Academy of Sciences; Philip Handler, Ph.D., President, National Academy of Sciences; Robert Hofstadter, Ph.D., Physicist, Stanford University, Nobel Laureate; Mrs. Robert Hofstadter; Donald Kennedy, Ph.D., Biologist, Stanford University; Joshua Lederberg, Ph.D., Geneticist, Stanford University, Nobel Laureate; Yehudi Menuhin, concert violinist; Henry Moore, Sculptor; John G. Nicholls, M.D., Ph.D. Neurobiologist, Stanford University; Wolfgang K.H. Panofsky, Ph.D., Director, Stanford Linear Accelerator, Consultant, United States Arms Control and Disarmament Agency; Linus Pauling, Ph.D., Chemist, Stanford University, Nobel Laureate; Mrs. Linus Pauling; Arthur Rubinstein, concert pianist; Mrs. Arthur Rubinstein; Miss Frederica von Stade, Metropolitan Opera.

We expect this program will be televised on public broadcast networks in the United States and abroad, and anticipate that it will also be released in the form of video cassettes and as a book.

We would be grateful if you would grant us permission to use the following graphic material in this program, and in its video cassette and book versions:
