Dear Mrs. Anievas,

Thank you for your letter of January 26th, with the good news about your husband. I am delighted to hear that he is active and playing in England, which is important, and I envy him for playing in Madrid in the most beautiful hall of Europe, with a very good orchestra, and a good conductor.

I shall certainly have a talk with Fritz Steinway, and tell him what I think of your husband, even if I think that he knows very well what an artist and fine pianist he is.

I, too, remember with great pleasure the delightful dinner in your house, and the good moments of Brussels.

Very cordially, to you both,

Arthur Rubinstein
