My 74th Birthday, August 5, 1986 given By Joan Strakan in her garden by candlelight for 50.

The Chef hates me He put 104 candles on the cake not 74. I thought they stopped all that at my age and put on One Candle.

Make a wish. Take a deep breath and blow out all the candles. All the 104 candles? You've got to be joking!!!

Who said I Didn't
Blow out one Candle
You're Right I Didn't.

Darlin' Nela—

Just a short note to say I miss you. Thought of you when they returned the show "Ain't Misbehavin'" to Broadway with the same cast. Relax, you and I saw.

How was your summer? Mine was very quiet—it was so hot and humid I stayed inside on Doctor's orders most of the summer. Hope the winter is better—The fall is turning out great. Lots going on in New York. I'm taking a group to the Algonquin to hear a new torch singer. Also another group for spoofing Broadway done by young hopefuls. Good fun. Send me news of you. Did you ever go to Henri's for lunch. My friend Pierre Jammet is waiting to greet you. Much love, Anita
