Dear Mrs Rubinstein

Very many thanks for your letter of August 3rd, which arrived today. I quite understand of course about October 3rd and have told Foyles that the luncheon is impossible that day. They are, incidentally, not just the biggest bookshop in Britain, but the biggest in the world and they give a very large luncheon from time to time for books to which they attach very special importance. Anyway, I'll try to arrange for the luncheon on another day if that can be done. Otherwise I note that you and your husband could stay from the time of the concert up to the 9th and will arrange for everything to happen during those days. I would be grateful if you could give me an indication of your husband's kind of schedule. In other words, if there were a late television programme (say as late as from 11 to 11.30) would that be all right? Do feel free to tell me anything that's relevant, for it is of course important to me that your visit should be a pleasure.
