Dear Mme. Rubinstein,

Your gracious letter capped off my pleasure of working on the article. As a pianist, your husband was my supreme role model + "teacher". As a music-journalist, I truly did want to give an accurate portrait; that you say I succeeded means alot to me.

I have spoken to my publisher, James Rohner, who says there would be no charge if you wanted to have the article translated + reprinted in programs. However he must know "the grantee" to whom rights would be relinquished. That is, would it be each concert hall which prints each program? (in Israel, Spain etc.), or to a management, etc. He cannot flatly say "Go ahead + reprint it wherever, + as often as you wish," although he would not limit its possibilities to you. He simply would like to put it in print, each time it was to be reprinted, that he grants its one-time use to each organization that uses it.

If you have any further questions (my) phone no. is 516-427-7556 (in Huntington, N.Y.), and this is as appears on the letterhead I enclose.

I would like, too, to make a personal request that any time my article might be reprinted, you would be good enough to send me one or two copies. And I would like my name to appear each time with the article. Aside from that, we are pleased at your response, & happy to be able to contribute in some small way to the Centennial celebration.

With sincere regards,

Carol Montparker (Taub)

P.S. In "real" life, I am Mrs. Ernest Taub!
